

YOUR PROBLEMS

"She Moved My Bed Into the Guest Room"

Dear Ann Landers: My wife went out and bought a fancy bedroom set as a 20th wedding anniversary present to herself. We always had a double bed but this new set has twin beds.

When the furniture store delivered the set, my wife discovered that the new beds, the dresser and chest of drawers didn't fit into our bedroom. So guess what she did. She moved MY bed into the guest room.

I'm plenty tired off over this but I haven't said anything to her because according to my horoscope, I can't win a point until next week. I ought to tell you that she is a Scorpio which means "stubborn as a mule." What do you suggest?—AQUARIUS.

Dear Aquarius: I suggest you tell Scorpio — immediately — to move the chest of drawers into the guest room and put your bed where it belongs. Stewing silently will only mean Uleerivle.

Use the soft, sentimental approach. Tell her how lonely it is and how much you miss her. I'm betting you'll be back in no time, Dad.

Dear Ann Landers: It there anything wrong with a brother taking his sister to a party or a dance? I'm 16 and not very popular. My brother is 17 and we have the same friends. He doesn't have a steady girl so I see nothing wrong if he escorts me. I hate missing out on everything and if he didn't take me I'd never go any place at all.

Yesterday he agreed to drive me to a big school party and then call for me. But he won't come inside. Is this right? Both mom and dad have stayed out of it because they say it's up to us to settle the matter between ourselves. Our grandmothers says it's the DUTY of a brother to help his sister socially if he can. What is your opinion?—WALLFLOWER.

Dear Wallflower: A girl who appears at a party or a dance with her brother (when the other girls have dates) might not get a back saying, "I couldn't get a date but I came anyway."

Once in a blue moon you'll find a brother who'd rather take his sister than any other girl. Such a boy NEEDS to date other girls and should not be encouraged to hide his shyness behind his sister's skirts.

In your case, however, it's plain your brother doesn't want to be your date since he refuses to do more than supply transportation. For heaven's sake let the poor kid off the hook and don't continue to take advantage of him just because he's a good natured shnook.

Dear Ann: I'm old enough to know the answers (32) but I need help with this one. I've been going out with a lovely girl 28, for almost five years. We're very much in love. She's good-looking, generous and everyone likes her. She wants to get married within three months but the problem is this: I started a new business and I'm in debt. I help support my mother and know I'll have this responsibility for many years. My car isn't completely paid for and I still owe the insurance company $1000 which I borrowed against a policy.

My fiancée says none of this makes any difference to her. She has a good job and intends to work after we are married. She's giving me lots of heat. In my opinion it would be unfair for me to marry her right now. Am I right?—BRICK.

Unfair my eye. You'll have to be wheeled down the wedding aisle if you wait until everything is perfect. If you two are in love go ahead and get married. At 32 time is more important than money.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' new booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) Copyright, 1959. Field Enterprises, Inc.

To Meet Daughter

Riviera Woman Visits Germany

Mrs. Clifford E. Easley of 234 Camino del Campo will leave by plane Friday, June 5, for Stuttgart, West Germany, where her daughter, Cynthia, has been doing graduate work at the German campus of Stanford University.

The mother and daughter will spend six weeks motor-ing through Europe before fly-ing home July 10.

Included in the itinerary are motor trips to Switzerland, Austria, the Lake Como area of Italy, and the French Riviera. After several days on the French Riviera, Mrs. Easley and Cynthia will fly to Miorca and the islands off the coast of Spain, and to Madrid, where they will pick up their car and return overland to the Riviera.

They will stop at Paris and in Belgium before going on to Amsterdam, Holland, where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. G. Jonckher. Mr. Jonckher is manager of the Nederland Shipping Lines.

After leaving the continent by way of Belgium, the mother and daughter will travel to the British Isles where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nigel Althouse and daughter, Katherine, in London, and will visit in Scotland.

Katherine Althouse and Cynthia were skiing companions for a week last spring at St. Moritz.

Upon their return to Torrance, Cynthia will spend the remainder of the summer in this area, and return to the Palo Alto campus of Stanford to continue her graduate studies in the fall.

Farewell dinner parties for Mrs. Easley have been given by Dr. and Mrs. Frank Frazier of Downey and by Dr. and Mrs. Howard Drake of San Marino.

Show Honors Go To Mrs. Peavy

Sweepstakes winner of Riviera Garden Club's first flower show, "Moods in May," held Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Jack Peight, 5013 Via el Sereno, was Mrs. Merrill Peavy, who was awarded four first prizes.

Receiving first prize in the specimen class Mrs. Peavy's scarlet wisteria tree.

She was awarded blue ribbons for her theme arrangement, which depicts May's moods with a birch tree branch which utilized red carnations and silver dollar eucalyptus. Her tropical tableau of greenery took top honors in the wood and rock predominating category.

First prize in the bulbous category went to a line arrangement of calla lilies by Mrs. George Shipway who also placed first in the category of potted plants, dish gardens, and planters.

Other blue ribbons went to: Mmes. Hollis Jewel, oriental class, who depicted that theme with Chinese lotus, figurines, and colorful pebbles; Howard Frace, special occasions, who carried out a Memorial Day motif with red bottle-brush bloom, white carnations, and blue delphiniums; Robert Kimes, miniature class; who arranged abelia foliage and fuchsia blooms in a tiny brass shoe; and Eugene Martin, who captured patio class honors with a fruit arrangement.

In the children's categories, prizes went to the two Peavy children, Anne and George.

Other ribbon winners were: Mmes. Charles J. John, Howard Swarthout, Charles Gleason, Merrill Bickmore, Charles Lundquist, Jack Speight, and David Sanders.

Background for the tables was provided by a reed fence, courtesy of Walteria Florist, draped in brilliant bougainvillea. The dining room table, which held mid-morning snacks of date-nut and banana breads, coffee cake, midget muffins, and doughnut "holes," was graced by a floral centerpiece donated by Windsor Florist.

Natural setting for outdoor fruits, vegetables, and flowers was the patio. Mrs. Ralph Lindsey and Mrs. Thomas de Chambeau were judges.
